WORKING WITH THE STRATIFICATION LAYERS

For our Split Stone range of products, we follow the stratification layers and work with the natural formation of the stone. The material is hand-split, revealing these natural layers to unearth the terra history of each individual stone and show the appeal of the raw material.

Following the stratification layer brings greater strength through compaction as well as a flat, non-slip, surface - making it ideal for use around pools and on pathways or driveways. Having a thin profile, these products can be used in many situations, especially where depth of tile is an issue such as balconies or when renovating an interior where there is limited set down.

Our Split Stone range presents an economical natural stone option that's easy to maintain, making it a great choice for both commercial and residential projects. Modular patterns can incorporate large format tiles in a cost-effective way.
